Occupational Health Science

Ph.D. Candidate in Environmental Science,
Human Exposure Assessment

Coupled with his extensive work experience and advanced degrees, Peter has more than 25+ years of experience within the field of public health and exposure assessment. He established himself as a certified industrial hygienist, a certified safety professional, and a certified hazardous materials manager after obtaining his Bachelors in Forensic Science and Toxicology. His passion for medical safety and hazardous waste management guided him toward a Masters in Environmental and Occupational Health Science and pursue a Doctorate in Environmental Science. His years of experience and advanced college degrees brings him to the forefront as an expert in industrial hygiene exposures within the workplace.

As a senior consultant for United Alliance Services, Peter is the foundation of a strong industrial hygienic assessment team. His sound awareness of potential airborne, environmental, and chemical exposures allows him to quickly notice potential hazards and aid in developing a health and safety plan to reduce potential exposures.

Utilizing his breadth of knowledge and expertise, Peter also manages his own health and safety consultancy firm in the New York City tri-state area where he caters to power utility companies, manufacturers, construction companies, the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, property managers and owners, and residents on issues surrounding workplace and environmental chemical exposure. Peter focuses on working with his clients to promote safe work environments, ensure regulations and standards are being met, and preventing unnecessary chemical exposure.

While serving as a senior consultant for United Alliance Services and running his own consulting firm, Peter also has a solid teaching career and can often be found teaching courses at the Hunter College/City University of New York Graduate School of Urban Public Health and Downstate Medical Center and University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey School of Public Health. Within these classrooms, Peter draws from his graduate education, while imparting his in the field experiences to develop a well-rounded and highly informative classroom experience.

Some of the graduate-level course material Peter has covered includes:

- Toxicology
- Industrial Hygiene
- Environmental Science
- Comprehensive Industrial Hygiene Review Course
